Missionaries Stoned to Death. In a letter received in New York Saturday by Rev. Joshua Kimber, Secretary of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church, the first detailed account of the murder of the Swedish missionaries, Wickholm and Johanssen, in Sungpu, China, is given. The slaughter occurred Saturday July 1. The letter says: "A great least had begun the previous Wednesday, when many thou ands of country people were gathered in the town. Wednesday, Thursday and Fri-day large numbers of people visited the missionaries' house, but all kept quiet, and when Saturday morning came they fondly hoped that they had outlived another false alarm. But early in the day a crowd began to assemble, evidently bent on mischief. They began by stoning, and then, as their courage rose, attempted to rush into the house. Finding it no longer togalls the mission.

ing it no longer tenable the missionaries made their way into the house of their landlord, adjoining, and saw their own instantly looted and everything smashed. The landlord's house was next attacked, so they climbed over a wall into another house, where they found refuge for a time in a garret. They were found out here also and were driven out of the garret onto the roof. The whole forenoon had passed in this way, and it was now 3 o'clock, the hour of their appearance and the end.

'As soon as they were seen on the roof a great short went up from the mob, and four men armed with iron rods went up after them. The missionaries, followed by these and pelted with stones and tiles from every side, retreated along about a score of houses, when they could get no farther, so they leaped into the road and were immediately despatched.

"The mob sprang on them, pierced them with their spiked carrying poles, pounded them with hoes, battered in their skulls, stripped every rag of clothing off them, and in mere wanton wickedness inflicted nameless barbarities on their now dead and senseless bodies. They were left lying stark and battered in the Sungpu street with no one to care for them save the native dogs.

When there was no more killing to be done the missionaries' house was set on fire and that and the adjoining one were burned to the ground, after an atempt had been made to natives who had associated with the dead foreigners, all of whom fortunate ly escaped with their lives, although one was crught and badly beaten.'

Sungpu is a market town sixty miles from Hankow on the road leading to Peking. It is a place of considerable trade, being near the borders of Homan. Many of the merchants go to it from that province instead of to Hankow. The inhabitants, who number about twenty thousand, are largely natives of other places and have been very friendly to strangers. The rioters came from certain villages in the vicinity and the real attacking parties were hired cutthroats,

EMMA GOLDMAN'S TALK.-Several meetings of the unemployed were held yesterday in Covenant Hall, New York. A speaker, whose name could not be learned, advised his whose name could not be rectued, advised in hearers to ask no more for work, that they were makers of bread and if they wanted it to go and take it and let nobedy or nothing stop them. They should flight all opposition no matter what kind, and get what they wanted.

Emma Goldman was more rabid in her utterances than ever. She told her hearers to remember the fate of the men who had been tellinear the late of the men who had been killed at Homestead by the Pinkertons. She told them that if they went to another meeting at Union Square not to even look at a policeman. Then she capped that with the advice: "Don't go to Union Square to-night advice: "Bon't go to Union Square to-nigut unless you are armed."

A young man took her place on the platform. Among other things, he said that the Jews should not work with the Christiaus, and that more particularly they should not affiliate with Irishmen, as Irishmen were owned by capitalists. He said, as Emma Goodman had said before him, that the police and the reporters were only waiting for a and the reporters were only waiting for a chance to jump on the Hebrew workingmen and stamp the life out of them.

RICHMOND, VA. I HAVE been a great sufferer from catarrh for over ten years; had it very bad, could har lly breathe. Some nights I could not sleep and had to walk the floor. I purchased Ely's Cream Balm and am using it freely, it is working a cure surely. I have advised several friends to use it, and with happy re-sults in every case. It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and it is worth its weight in gold. I thank God I have found a remedy I can use with safety and that does all that is claimed for it. It is curing my deafness.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.
